

Secret List of Free Press Release Submission Sites Made Public

SEO Market Research firm shares secret list of high performing Free Press Release Distribution sites that can drive quality traffic to your website.

Online-News; 22-November-2009 – SEO and Internet Market Research firm Irbtrax recently created a website that contains a list of highly ranked Free Press Release Submission Service Sites. Each featured free press release distribution service offers measurable SEO and traffic building results. The goal of the website, called PrSiteList.com, is to be an up to date online resource for users of press release distribution marketing strategies.

According to Steve Johnson, who is the <http://PrSiteList.com> administrator- "Our most successful press releases have generated over 100 unique visitors to our website. And best of all, these services are free."

<http://PrSiteList.com> is the result of detailed testing over one hundred free press release distribution service sites. The free press release websites that made its final list allow direct click Backlinks or Anchor text. Keyword or Meta Description Tag entry. Provide user friendly registration and submission formats. And have demonstrated good Google Internet visibility. Meaning the releases remain searchable long after being submitted.

According to Mr. Johnson: "Our primary goal was to create a list of free online press release services that offered our clients the best return for their time and effort. When we finished, we felt this information was too valuable to keep from public view."

Providing a specific example, the PrSiteList.com administrator points out that Free Press Release service Online-News was included on the list because it met or exceeded these important SEO Internet Marketing applications. Including Social Media benefits, such as being redistributed by users of Twitter.com or published within popular industry related Blogs.

About: PrSiteList.com was created by www.Irbtrax.com and is dedicated to providing a unique easy to use online resource for users of multiple Free Press Release Distribution services and strategies. Its list of 20 plus free press release services are continually updated. The site also includes valuable Press Release Marketing tips and information on how to write effective press releases.